OUTSTANDING GRADUATES

College of DuPage annually selects two outstanding graduates, sponsored by the College of DuPage Foundation. This year, Lourdez Ardila and Stephanie Chávez will represent COD's student body at Commencement. Finalists for this year's honor are Ty Giordano, Lindsey Gottardo, Celina Gregor, Rosemary Montalbano, Ayesha Shafiuddin, Matthew Van Duyen and John Tolle.

.....

When LOURDEZ ARDILA initially attended COD, she had to withdraw from her classes after being diagnosed with severe Crohn's disease. Her medical crisis included emergency surgeries, surviving a coma and working through her disability, relearning such tasks as walking up stairs.

But she never gave up on her dream of earning a college degree. After finding initial success through online study, Lourdez immersed herself in campus life and was named an Honors Scholar, became an officer of the Psi Beta Psychology Club and was a member of Phi Theta Kappa.

Outside the classroom, Lourdez volunteers with the Crohn's and Colitis Foundation, advocating and raising funds for those who suffer from the same diseases she does.

Having received the annual Honors Transfer Scholarship to Aurora University, Lourdez will major in industrial organizational psychology and minor in behavioral and/or clinical psychology. Her goals include earning both bachelor's and master's degrees.

College was never a given for STEPHANIE CHÁVEZ. As the youngest of five and a first-generation college student, she wanted to become an educator and realized it was the right career after taking her first education course at COD.

Stephanie immediately joined the Aspiring Educators Club and later served as its president. This allowed her to connect with her peers and faculty members while learning about her future profession. Because of her hard work, she was recognized by Student Life as COD's Emerging Leader of the Year.

Her involvement expanded to the state level when she was elected as the communications coordinator and, most recently, as chairperson for the Illinois Education Association Aspiring Educators, a branch of the largest teacher's union in the state. She also works part-time with fourth graders at a local nonprofit.

Transferring to Elmhurst University, she is majoring in secondary social science education and would like to become a high school social studies teacher.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

The colors and costumes of the commencement ceremony of today date from the 12th and 13th centuries, when universities first began to take shape. Long cloaks or gowns, worn by clerks studying in holy orders, were probably needed for warmth in the drafty, unheated halls. The hood, originally part of the medieval cowl, could be pulled forward or thrown back according to weather conditions. The distinctive gown also served to set the student apart from the rest of the townspeople.

As late as the beginning of the 20th century, students at most American colleges were still required to wear caps and gowns daily while in residence. Academic dress is now reserved for special occasions, such as the ceremony this evening, and serves to remind us of our educational heritage.

English and European universities developed extremely varied, often richly embroidered, academic vestments. Seeking to avoid the complexity and confusion of other academic ceremonies, American educators adopted a uniform code of dress in 1895. Accordingly, a special style of robe is prescribed for each of the three basic academic degrees.

The baccalaureate, or bachelor's degree, gown is primarily distinguished by long, pointed sleeves and lack of adornment.

The master's degree gown has oblong sleeves that are cut out at the bottom of the front.

The doctorate's gown is distinguished by full, bell-shaped sleeves with three velvet bars on the upper arm and velvet panels down the front.

The hood is the most outstanding feature of the American academic regalia. The length and shape of the hood indicate the degree that is granted, the lining displays the official colors of the university, and the velvet trim indicates the field of study. Some of the common colors representing academic disciplines are:

APRICOT	NURSING
BLUE VIOLET	ARCHITECTURE
BROWN.....	FINE ARTS
COPPER	ECONOMICS
CRIMSON	JOURNALISM
DARK BLUE.....	PHILOSOPHY
DRAB.....	BUSINESS
GOLDEN YELLOW.....	SCIENCE
GREEN.....	MEDICINE
LEMON YELLOW.....	LIBRARY SCIENCE
ORANGE.....	ENGINEERING
PEACOCK BLUE.....	PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION
PINK	MUSIC
POWDER BLUE	EDUCATION
PURPLE	LAW
SCARLET	THEOLOGY
WHITE.....	ARTS AND LETTERS

The mortar board cap is the Oxford style. Except for the gold tassels for Ph.D.s, the colors of the tassels represent the academic disciplines in which the degree has been granted. Faculty members will be wearing academic dress representing the highest degree they have earned.
