Dear Community Stakeholders:

Each year, College of DuPage undertakes a budget process that consists of a thorough examination of every department. Our staff spends six months identifying and analyzing all financial needs in order to prepare an accurate and impactful budget that reflects the College’s commitment to fiscal responsibility.

This is a rigorous process to undertake under normal circumstances. Doing so during coronavirus pandemic presented its own set of unique challenges that included working remotely. I commend the many employees who prepared the FY22 budget while monitoring the College’s future plans for on-campus instruction and activities in the wake of the pandemic.

The Budget-in-Brief provides a general overview of the full budget and includes additional information such as institutional goals. The document outlines where our money comes from and how it is spent in order to best serve our students.

I invite you to read the Budget-in-Brief and see how College of DuPage optimizes the deployment of its resources for the benefit of the community.

Respectfully yours,

Brian W. Caputo, Ph.D., C.P.A.
President
